

California Proposition 65 Statement

California Health & Safety Code Sections 25249.6, et seq. (“Proposition 65”) requires consumer warnings for hundreds of chemicals known to cause cancer, birth defects, or other reproductive harm.

CTS Corporation (“CTS”) does not typically manufacture or market consumer products. The parts and components that CTS manufactures, however, may be incorporated directly or indirectly into various consumer electronics products (such as guitar parts, stomp boxes, keyboards, speakers, amplifiers, thermostats, and continuous positive airway pressure (“CPAP”) machines). Proposition 65 Substances used by CTS may include brass components which contain lead, lead-containing solder, nickel alloys in plating, and antimony bound in some plastics.

Due to the use of Proposition 65 Substances in some of our products, CTS will provide the following warning where appropriate.

CTS recommends customers review the Proposition 65 regulations to determine the appropriate method and requirements for compliance. Additional information concerning Proposition 65 can be found at www.P65Warnings.ca.gov.
